

Everyday analogue helper: bullet journaling starter set

The perfect tool for those who want to organise their daily activities with pen and paper instead of an online app: bullet journaling is the creative trend that structures life using set bullet points. Faber-Castell has now created a convenient nine-piece starter set that provides everything beginners need to get started: a pencil for preliminary sketches, a fineliner for contours, five colourful India ink Pitt Artist Pens for lettering and fill-ins and a pastel pink Textliner to emphasise all the highlights. The set also includes a journal with 40 pages of Dot Grip paper so you can get started right away. If you're still looking for some inspiration, just go online and download the bullet journaling guide from the Faber-Castell website.
